

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS TO YOUNG WRITERS PROGRAM

RH Reality Check, a daily publication featuring news, analysis and commentary on sexual and reproductive health and justice issues, is seeking two passionate and promising young writers ages 15-20 to join our Spring 2014 Young Writers Program.

In creating formal space for the inclusion of younger voices, RH Reality Check expands the broader reproductive health conversation taking place among policymakers and the organizations and individuals that influence them.

The Young Writers Program is a semester-long commitment. Participants will be expected to publish two approved articles per month, and in exchange will receive hands-on guidance, editing, and mentoring. Writers are paid for published pieces as independent contractors (not employees) of RH Reality Check.

To apply, please send an email to youngwritersapply@rhrealitycheck.org with the following information no later than Friday, January 17:

- A cover letter explaining why you would like to be considered for the program, including discussion of issues you might like to cover and what perspective you bring to those issues
- Three writing samples
- Links to your Tumblr, blog, and/or Twitter (strictly optional and only if you wish to share them as part of your application)
- Your name, school and grade level (if applicable), personal address, telephone number, and age

Due to the volume of submissions, only complete applications sent to youngwritersapply@rhrealitycheck.org by the January 17 deadline will be considered.

RH Reality Check is committed to recruiting diverse candidates. We encourage applications from qualified individuals of all races, ethnic groups, and genders.